

FIG. 1. 1.-Schematic illustration of eruptive flares. In the upper part, a magnetic island is formed and ejected upward as a plasma blob (plasmoid), while closed magnetic loops appear near the base, which can be observed as the postflare loops.